Anarchists Push Cause Of 'None of the Above'

States News Service

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4 — A small group of Yippies and anarchists gathered in the rain today to offer an alternative Presidential candidate to the voters.

The organizers of the "Nobody for President Rally," led by Hugh Romney, who is known as Wavy Gravy, gathered across the street from the White House to push for the adoption of "none of the above" choices on the Presidential selection ballot.

With tongues firmly in cheek, the "Nobody for President Committee" members castigated Ronald Reagan, Jimmy Carter and John B. Anderson, and instead offered the nation's voters a "perfect" candidate.

"Just think of it," Mr. Gravy shouted to about 50 onlookers at lunchtime. "Nobody makes apple pie better than Mom. And Nobody will love you when you're down and out.

"If Nobody wins," Mr. Gravy concluded, "than Nobody will lose."
