Woodstock's Wavy Gravy chooses Nobody

Nobody, the leading contender in this year's presidential race, will hold a rally tonight in Amherst to consolidate support for the only candidate who can end world problems such as the nuclear arms race and hunger.

Despite interpretations of yesterday's Iowa caucuses and innumerable other polls, complete statistics have clearly shown Nobody should win every four years. In 1980, 79 million voted for president, but 82 million stayed home and thus voted for Nobody.

Among other things, Nobody is the latest in a series of candidacies spearheaded by Nobody's Fool, also known as Wavy Gravy, a poet, teacher, hospice worker, hog farmer, and most recognizably, the clown who emceed the Woodstock Festival.

In an eight-year-old campaign he both jokes childishly about and speaks of us seriously as he does the school he runs for dying children. Wavy Gravy has some ultimately compelling reasons for his choosing Nobody, the perfect catch-all candidate.

Gravy's fame flowered at Woodstock, where he and his Berkeley, Calif.-based commune, the Hog Farm, managed the food tent, feeding and later keeping the peace for upwards of 40,000 people.

He is now on the Board of Directors of the S.E.V.A. Foundation, a charitable society of doctors and laypeople who work to help the 80 percent of the world's blind who are needlessly so by giving them a $10 operation.

Gravy will be at Amherst College's Fayerweather Hall tonight at 8 and at Hampshire College's Music Recital Hall Saturday at 8 p.m. Admission is free.
